How to subscribe to subprocessor change notices

Poppy notifies Customers of subprocessor changes by email (sent to the address on file) and by updating this page. To ensure you receive notices, keep your account email current.

If you do not have a Front Desk account but want to monitor subprocessor changes (for example, you are evaluating the Service), email privacy@poppymarketingandconsulting.com to request notification.

How to object to a subprocessor change

If a proposed subprocessor change is unacceptable to you, email privacy@poppymarketingandconsulting.com within the thirty (30) day notice window with a reasonable basis for the objection. Poppy will work in good faith to resolve the objection. If Poppy cannot accommodate it, you may terminate the affected portion of the Service without penalty under Section 4.4 of the Data Processing Addendum.
